

Revista
Empresa y Humanismo

2

Vol. XIII, nº 2/10

Instituto Empresa y Humanismo
Universidad de Navarra

REVISTA EMPRESA Y HUMANISMO
CONSEJO EDITORIAL

Presidente
D. Enrique de Sendagorta

- D. Horst Albach (Universidad de Bonn)
D. Rafael Alvíra Domínguez (Universidad de Navarra)
Dª Reyes Calderón Cuadrado (Universidad de Navarra)
D. Tomás Calleja Canelas (Fiatlux)
D. José Luis Carranza Ortiz (BBVA)
D. Ricardo Crespo (Universidad de Cuyo y Universidad Austral)
D. José Antonio García-Durán (Universidad de Barcelona)
D. Santiago García Echevarría (Universidad de Alcalá)
D. Agustín González Enciso (Universidad de Navarra)
D. Nicolás Grimaldi (Universidad de París-Sorbona)
D. Alejandro Llano Cifuentes (Universidad de Navarra)
D. Enrique Martín López (Universidad Complutense de Madrid)
D. Miguel Alfonso Martínez-Echevarría (Universidad de Navarra)
D. José Manuel Morán Criado (Consejo Económico y Social de España)
D. Leonardo Polo Barrena (Universidad de Navarra)
D. Rafael Rubio de Urquiza (Universidad Autónoma de Madrid)
D. Alfonso Sánchez Tabernero (Universidad de Navarra)
D. Eugenio Simón Acosta (Universidad de Navarra)
D. Alejo J. Sison (Universidad de Navarra)
D. Guido Stein (IESE)
- Director
D. Agustín González Enciso
- Subdirector
D. Alfredo Cruz
- Editoras
Dª Mª Cristina Bozal
Dª Marina Martínez
- Editor Asociado
D. Iñaki Vélaz (Vialogoscopio)

La revista Empresa y Humanismo es una publicación periódica editada por el Instituto Empresa y Humanismo de la Universidad de Navarra. Su principal objetivo es recoger, desde una perspectiva interdisciplinar -filosófica, económica y empresarial, jurídica, histórica y política- trabajos inéditos e intelectualmente rigurosos sobre la empresa y las organizaciones sociales, entendidas como instituciones humanas, y sobre la función directiva. La revista pretende igualmente resultar un instrumento útil para que las personas que se dedican a la dirección empresarial puedan contar con un referente intelectual serio.

© los autores
© Instituto Empresa y Humanismo.

Universidad de Navarra
31080 Pamplona, España
e-mail: cbozal@unav.es y marina@unav.es
http:// www.unav.es/empresayhumanismo

Suscripciones: dirigirse a la Secretaría del Instituto Empresa y Humanismo

Edita: Servicio de Publicaciones de la Universidad de Navarra, S. A.

ISSN: 1139-7608

Depósito Legal: NA-77/1999

Diseño e impresión: IDAZLUMA, S.A.

Impreso en España

Impreso en papel
certificado que
proviente de bosques
gestionados de forma
sostenible y fuentes
controladas

PEFC/14-38-00032

CALL FOR MANUSCRIPTS

BUSINESS ETHICS QUARTERLY

REVIVING TRADITION: VIRTUE AND THE COMMON GOOD IN BUSINESS AND MANAGEMENT

DUE JULY 15, 2010

Guest Editors: Alejo José G. Sison, University of Navarre
Joan Fontrodona, IESE Business School
Edwin Hartman, Stern School of Business, New York University

Virtue ethics is one of several major options for a framework in the theory and practice of business ethics. Unlike the commonly invoked deontological and consequentialist approaches that focus on justice, rights, or utility, virtue ethics is little used and less understood. A review of the business ethics literature reveals the dominance in business ethics of rule-based approaches in theory and practice. Related areas of theory and practice, such as corporate social responsibility, also typically are characterized by rule-based approaches to a company's relationship to the environment and society. And a cursory look at popular media shows that consequentialist ethics is popular as well; many executives find the maximization of profit to be the preeminent purpose for most of their actions, notwithstanding their readiness to repeat official company slogans to the contrary.

A robust account of the virtues, such as the one offered by Aristotle, requires clearly identifiable goods connected with the norms and practices of human beings who identify themselves as members of communities that are culturally and historically situated. Aristotle argues that eudaimonia, a particularly deep form of happiness, is the prime example of the common good: something we can only achieve in collaboration with others. This is not a notion that we associate with deontological or consequentialist ethics. As MacIntyre reminded us in After Virtue, the inherent weakness of virtue ethics is that, unlike deontological and consequentialist ethics, it is unabashedly un-Enlightened. Instead of taking as starting points the principles of an abstract, universal reason and the freedom of the individual, virtue ethics thrives on and is nourished by tradition. What could be more easily dismissed in a multicultural and global society? That's why many academics and practitioners, even those who nostalgically cling to the word "virtue," refer to a lightly defined and lightly defended list of values, nebulous enough to earn a consensus without causing anyone much inconvenience.

In the past three decades we have seen a revival of virtue ethics and the idea of the common good in largely academic philosophical discussions. Perhaps the time has come to extend the debate, pioneered among others by the late Robert Solomon, to the theory and practice of business ethics today.

For this special issue of Business Ethics Quarterly we welcome philosophical and social scientific work on the relevance, challenges, critiques, and contributions of virtue ethics and the common good to business and management in today's global scenario. Here are a few of many possible topics:

What is the common good of a business? How does it relate to the common good of society?

What is the role of a business organization in the development or corruption of virtue or character?

What insights does research and theory in the behavioral sciences provide for our understanding of the virtues?

What is the relationship of practical reasoning to managerial decision making? How do virtues shape individual and social preferences?

Can virtues be global, or are there essentially rival accounts of virtue?

What is the status of the virtues? Are they explanatory? Normative? Non-existent?

How can we understand specific virtues or vices in business contexts? For example, what is the role of hubris in CEO behavior? What is the role of justice and moderation in executive compensation practices, or in competition? How does the virtue of honesty play a role in financial reporting, or prudence in investing, or courage in entrepreneurship, or moderation in marketing?

What issues arise in meshing personal characters with corporate cultures? How does this question affect hiring practices, or issues of “workaholism,” consumerism, and moderation, and the idea of self-realization through work?

What are the virtues and vices not of business specifically, but of commercial societies? What relationship holds between the virtues and business as an institution, or management as a profession?

What virtues are relevant to understanding stakeholder relationships or worker participation in corporate governance?

Are there specific virtues relevant to environmental and ecological issues and practices, such as sustainable production and consumption?

Do the virtues provide a basis for alternative paradigms of corporate success, or alternative measures of social capital?

To address these and other relevant questions, we seek a broad range of submissions—including both normative, philosophical research and theoretical or empirical (quantitative or qualitative) social scientific research—and we encourage contributions that make use of, and contribute to, one or more theoretical perspectives that find their place within business ethics or any other relevant fields of inquiry (such as philosophy, psychology, organization studies, sociology, political science/theory, legal theory, economics, etc.). Ideally, manuscripts will provide a new and substantial contribution to the understanding of virtue ethics and the common good in the theory and practice of business and management, and also will make a significant contributions to the more general theoretical perspective(s) on which the manuscript is based.

Manuscripts should be prepared according to BEQ guidelines for contributors (<http://www.businessethicsquarterly.org>) and submitted by July 15, 2010 through BEQ's online manuscript submission system (<http://editorialexpress.com/beq>). Please include a reference to "Special Issue: Virtue and the Common Good" in the "Comments" box of the submissions website. Papers will be subject to a double-blind review and acceptance will be determined by the guest editors together with the regular editors of BEQ. For further information, please contact guest editor Alejo José G. Sison (ajson@unav.es).

Índice

Artículos

José Aguilar

Los cuatro libros clásicos del confucianismo: una lectura económica 13

José Luis Álvarez y Juan Carlos Molero

Las pensiones de jubilación en España: el debate que no llega..... 41

Inmaculada Baviera

Las políticas de empleo en la Unión Europea: una reflexión en el vigésimo aniversario de la caída del muro de Berlín..... 67

Estrella Bernal Cuenca y Pilar de Luis Carnicer

Ética profunda en la empresa como base de la sostenibilidad sistémica 79

Santiago de Llobet Masachs

Obstáculos para la creación de empresas en una economía dirigida.
El nacimiento de la papelera Fibras Vegetales de Navarra
(FIVENA) en la ribera del Ebro, Tudela 1951 121

Elena Gutiérrez

Dimensión comunicativa del buen gobierno empresarial..... 149

Guido Stein y Javier Capapé

Causas del fracaso de un CEO: mapa de un debate (I) 183

María Alejandra Vanney Estado de Derecho y Derecho Estatal	237
--	-----

Recensiones

Samuel Gregg y James R. Stoner Jr. (eds.) (2008), Rethinking Business Management. Examining the Foundations of Business Education , por Santiago de Apellániz Sainz-Trápaga	265
Peter T. Leeson (2009), The Invisible Hook. The Hidden Economics of Pirates , por Mario Šilar.....	271
Martin Rhonheimer (2009), Cristianismo y laicidad. Historia y actualidad de una relación compleja , por Mario Šilar.....	281
María Alejandra Vanney (2009), Libertad y Estado. La Filosofía Jurídico-Política de Álvaro d'Ors , por Ion Perea Itarte.	295

En el volumen XIII de la Revista Empresa y Humanismo han colaborado como evaluadores anónimos las siguientes personas:

María A. Carrasco (Universidad Católica de Santiago de Chile)
David Castro Lugo (Universidad Autónoma de Coahuila, México)
Pablo de Andrés Alonso (Universidad de Valladolid)
Aurelio de Prada (Universidad Rey Juan Carlos)
María Luisa del Pozo Lite (Universidad Complutense de Madrid)
José Luis García Delgado (Universidad Complutense de Madrid)
José María García Gómez-Heras (Universidad de Salamanca)
José Ignacio García Ninet (Universidad de Barcelona)
Héctor Ghiretti (Universidad de Cuyo)
Sean Valentine Golden (Universidad Autónoma de Barcelona)
Elsa González Esteban (Universidad Jaume I)
Juan Francisco Jimeno Serrano (Banco de España)
Martín Larraza Kintana (Universidad Pública de Navarra)
Raquel Lázaro (Universidad de Navarra)
Bernard-Frank Macera (Universidad de Valladolid)
Emilio Majuelo (Universidad Pública de Navarra)
Frederic Marimon (Universidad Internacional de Catalunya)
Enrique Moradiellos (Universidad de Extremadura)
Andrés Ollero (Universidad Rey Juan Carlos)
Alfredo Pastor (IESE)
Francisco Xavier Paunero (Universidad de Girona)
Rocío Sánchez Lissen (Universidad de Sevilla)
Carlos Sotelo Enríquez (Interesa Consultores)
Joan Gil Trasfi (Universidad de Barcelona)
Juan Zabalza (Universidad de Alicante)

Artículos

